PRESIDENT OF T. & G. BUYS GOLDEN SPIKE

Word was received on Friday from E. O. Patterson, receiver of the Nye & Ormsby County bank, that President M. B. Cutter of the Tonopah & Goldfield has redeemed his promise, made at a banquet in Goldfield some time ago, to purchase the golden spike which was used to mark the completion into Goldfield of the T. & G. railroad, says the Goldfield Tribune.

The spike was "hooked" to the bank several years ago by Alonzo Tripp, formerly manager of the road, and some time ago was sent to the Goldfield Commercial association at the instance of President Detch and other directors, who wished to have it preserved as a souvenir of the early days of the camp and to prevent its being melted down for the gold it contains. Since its arrival here the spike, which was shown for a time in the Tribune window, has reposed in the vault at the Tribune office for safe keeping and on Friday evening it was turned over to the officials of the Commercial association who, in turn, will deliver it to the officials of the T. & G. railroad.

A large surveying party is now at work in the valley on the Carey project that will mean the reclamation of thousands of acres in that section. Victor Barnet declared yesterday that the new tools and castings had arrived at the potash drill hole and sinking would be resumed without delay. Operations at that place were suspended some time ago owing to the non-arrival of the material ordered over a month ago. However, the delayed shipment put in an appearance last week and is now on the ground and being rapidly installed.

Quite a record was established by W. W. Charles, who drove his own car. Previous to the trip Mr. Charles' record for distance driving had not exceeded 30 miles. During this journey he covered 340 miles and at the end appeared as fresh as when he started out. His trip was without incident with the exception of an occasional blowout.

HORSES PROVE TO BE PUZZLE

The state of Nevada has adopted a horse which it does not want, but which it has no legal right to have killed and not right to give away, says the Gazette.

It has this horse under quarantine and according to an opinion of Attorney General Cleve Baker the state must keep the horse under quarantine but cannot kill it. The horse is said to have the glanders, a number of experts having declared the animal to be suffering from this disease.

The horse was purchased by Frank Silva in February, 1911, and in August of the following year Dr. T. F. Richardson, then state veterinarian, ordered the horse placed in quarantine. Silva claimed that the horse did not have the glanders and protested against it being placed in quarantine. Tests were made by Dr. Peterson of Reno and Dr. Mack of the university, both reporting that the horse had glanders. A movement test was then made with the same result.

The horse has been in quarantine all this time and is growing fat. So far Silva has been providing the hay but it is stated that he will demand that the state reimburse him for the hay he has furnished up to this time.
